Let the Mountains Lead You to Love

This new production is a rich and playful look at love in its various forms, full of vitality, innocence and a healthy dose of cynicism. Six extraordinary performers (including two Polish dancers), are released from the restrictions of the city to indulge in the confusions of sexuality, the puzzles of attraction and the joys of fake folk dancing.

deliberate return to his roots in jazz. Initially with Django Bates and Iain Ballamy, he encouraged the use of rock technology with a jazz sensibility. Nine CD's later, having effectively jettisoned all electronic percussion, Earthworks is now revisiting the broadly acoustic sax-piano-bass-drums line-up, and includes Steve Hamilton on piano (Van Morrison, Ray Charles), Mark Hodgson on acoustic bass and the prolific Tim Garland on sax/bass clarinet. ### LET THE MOUNTAINS LEAD YOU TO LOVE

Mon 17 / 8pm / £9 (£7)

Following the huge success of Drop Dead Gorgeous, this new production brings together a cast of versatile and committed performers from Austria, Poland and the UK. Set in a white landscape, strewn with autumn leaves, Let The Mountains Lead You To Love investigates some of the moral and physical urges that get us in and out of sexual trouble. A rich and playful look at love in its various forms - platonic, lustful, forbidden, sensual, jealous, divine, innocent and romantic - the work is released from the restrictions of the city to explore the confusions of sexuality, the puzzles of sexual attraction and the inevitable imperfections of human behaviour. Funded by the Arts Council of England, Sheffield City Arts and Yorkshire Arts. Co-commissioned by Sheffield Theatres, Hall for Cornwall / Dance Agency Cornwall and Arnolfini Live.

BETTER FUTURE

Tues 18 / 8pm / £8 (£6)

There was a potential for profit and a profit through betrayal, there were opportunities for fulfilment and unfulfilled potential... there were wishes for a time when change didn't change much, when things were stable and we enjoyed a kind of certainty. This is the story of how that certainty got lost. Blind Ditch is an international coalition of devisors, composers and fine artists, who make performances that speak to the audience about what is in their hearts, their bones and their bodies - as much as about what is on their minds.
